Does AI Improve Doctors' Diagnoses? Study Finds Out

The median diagnostic accuracy for the docs using Chat GPT Plus was 76.3%, while the results for the physicians using conventional approaches was 73.7%. The Chat GPT group members reached their diagnoses slightly more quickly overall – 519 seconds compared with 565 seconds.

The researchers were surprised at how well Chat GPT Plus alone performed, with a median diagnostic accuracy of more than 92%. They say this may reflect the prompts used in the study, suggesting that physicians likely will benefit from training on how to use prompts effectively. Alternately, they say, healthcare organizations could purchase predefined prompts to implement in clinical workflow and documentation.

Researching real estate agents

- The request is to find the top three Toronto real estate agents, ranked by sales volume and homes sold.
- I'm considering whether "individual" means agents working alone or just individual people, including those with teams.
- It looks like I need to check if they operate independently or with a team, so it's about individual agents, team or not.
- I'm thinking realtor.ca might have data or rankings for Toronto agents, given it's managed by CREA.
